The end ReSult

We wait and wonder and plan for the end result. For some, there are three years between now and the end result, for some only another semester, and for a few only a few short months until the end result is actually here. Will I be successful? Will I get the job I really want or will I be a garbage man with a college degree? And most importantly.... WILL I GET MARRIED?? Some people already have these questions answered, but most are still biting nails waiting.

What we do in these next few crucial years will help determine the end result. What we do at Union, impressions we make on people off campus, the people we choose to hang around. how we handle situations, and who we are when the world isn't watching all determine our end result. Union helps us learn how to have a better end result. We learn the value of choice with gentle guidance, the value of each other, and the importance of prayer and faith in God and each other. We learn how to see things through the eyes of Christ and how to be more like Him.

The education we receive here is based on the most important factor of life... Jesus Christ. We never realize what we have until we look at someone who has received little or no guidance from their administration, and whose teachers never prayed for them or prayed with them.

Just remember the friends, the teachers, and administration you met and the God who loves you. If God be for you, who can be against you? Good Luck!

JuMp Start

 to those questions. All through elementary, junior high and high school I had my life planned out.... that is until my senior year. I had no clue where I should go to college.

I knew my major, music, but not the school to attend. So, I went to my Youth Music Minister, who is a Union Alumni, and he "preached" Union. I rolled my eyes at a lot of what he had to say, but my dad made me go to Campus Day the very next day. I prayed that my attitude would not be bias in any way and that He would just show me where He wanted me. I almost immediately fronted with the money issue. I had no idea where the money for tuition would come from! So once again I found myself on my knees to God pleading with Him to grant me the money for tuition.

Finally, a few months before I graduated from high school, everything was prepared and set. I knew that as a result of prayer Union is the place God needs me to be. So, here I go, setting off on another journey.... one of the biggest of my life. See ya in the end!

Winter, Spring, Summer or Fall, shocking EVENTS happen world wide. As each season runs into the next,events TAK $E$ place both on and off campus.

The Clinton Grand Jury investigation, peace agreements in THE Middle East and the Yankees victory in the World Series will all be remembered for years to come.

Campus happenings, although not world renown, but just as memorable in T/ME include everything from Lady Margaret Thatcher's visit, Smalltown Poets, and Campus Day 70 Homecoming and the Variety SHOW.

In THE rush of daily life, we sometimes forget to stop, look around and appreciate the significance of these events. Someone once said, ""I I asked God for all things that I may enjoy life but God gave us life that we may enjoy all things." If we take time to reflect, we see that we live in a time of great EXCITEMENT.

A glimpse at events, trends and issues $O f$ the late 1990 s tells you it's a time and a $L / F E$ like never before and never again.

On a warm day near the beginning of October, the campus of Union was filled with students, some currently enrolled and others prospectively checking out the school. Tables, signs, and banners lined the halls, inviting the people to look into various clubs and organizations.

Outside, red and white balloons pointed the way to Union, promising a unique experience of college life and excitement. In the field behind the school, sororities and fraternities perpared for their traditional battle in the Greek Olympics. Shouts and cheers could be heard echoing over the campus as the games began.

When the games were over, students gathered in the Grove to make their dinner selection from the many choices at the food carnival. They talked about the day and made plans to join the line waiting to get in to see $A$ Cross Between perform.

The day, though tiring, was a great success, and Union proved, once again that it truly is a great place to be.

Performer Tom Key portrayed the life of C.S Lewis in "C.S. Lewis On Stage."

On November 3, 1998, Union presented "C.S. Lewis On Stage," a one-person play performed by Tom Key. The performance included eight works of C.S. Lewis combined to form a dramatic, yet witty, autobiographic look into life of one of history's most charismatic personalities. Key is quoted as stating. "I felt that his personality and presence, captured in a performance of, essentially, all his own words would compel the interest of a theater audience." And so it does. The play was part of a celebration of C.S. Lewis that was an interesting addition to Union's line up of fall presentations.

1998 was the second year for Union to produce four theatrical proctuctions. The opening performance was Don't Drink the Water, a present day comedy by Woody Allen. It was followed by A Cloun's Play: Jack and the Beanstalk, the annual children's play; and the spring plays were Scopin, a period piece and an Italian commedia clel arte, and 1984 by George Orwell to round out the season.

All four performances were quality entertainment, and they were all expected to have high attendance, if not sell-out as community response continued to grow. As always, Union's theater department tried to offer another avenue for the public to come to the campus to build a new audience. "Theater is one art form that give audiences and performers input into life." wayne Johnson saicl.

The children's play, Jack and the Beanstalk, was one of the most beneficial shows of the season. It offered young children a taste of theater, live entertainment. culture, and university life. It serves as a wonderful recruiting tool, and such an experience might even influence a child to attend college later on in life. Although putting on a play for young children is a tough process, Mr. David Burke, director of the play, believes that "...It's always worthwhile after it's over."

The fall of 1998 brought in an influx of considerable talent within the freshman class. Mr. Burke and Mr. Johnson, co-directors of the theater both desire to provide good theater and education to the public and the students who are committed to the rehearsals and performances. Under their direction, the deparment will continue to be a success and source of pricle to all of Union University.

Tuesday，October 20， 1998 was a day that shall lin－ ger in Union University history forever．On that day，Lady Margaret Thatcher，former Prime Minister of Great Brit－ ain，arrived in Jackson to speak at the 1998 Union Univer－ sity Scholarship Banquet，which raised approximately $$ 210,000$ to promote the enrichment of academics and stu－ dent life at the university．This visit would probably be one of her last official world tours．

The program，held at the Jackson Civic Center，be－ gan at 7 P．M．，and Lady Thatcher＇s speech followed a video presentation of the 21 st century plans for Union．Tthe topic of her speech was＂Challenges Facing the 21st Cen－ tury．＂

Entertainment for the evening was provided in the lobby prior to the banquet by the music department of Union University．A bust of Lady Thatcher was created by Union＇s own Genie Henley，an art major，and it was displayed prominently during the banquet．

Lady Thatcher discussed her role in global policy and detailed how everyone must prepare for the demands the 21 st Century．It was a great honor for Union to be graced by her presence，and thanks to her willingness to come and the banquet sponsors＇donations，Union got a significant boost toward reaching its goals of becoming a leader in higher education．

The support of banquets and speakers such as these is of great importance to Union＇s future．Without Lady Thatcher and all of the sponsors of this important event， Union life as we know it and all its future plans would cease．This was a wonderful experience for all who at－ tended，and many students，as well as faculty and mem－ bers of the West Tennessee community，were present and found it to be a most memorable experience．

Parrent's Weekend

Quality Time at Union

By: Mary Mount

The second annual parent's weekend was held November 13-14, 1998. It was a chance for parents who might not get to see their children very often to visit them and experience life at Union. They had the opportunity to attend a chapel service Friday morning, to visit their children's classes, to participate in a question and answer session with a panel of Union faculty members, and to see in general what life is like on the Union campus in the middle of a semester instead of when everyone is either moving in or out of the dorms.

The weekend was very successful, and students, as well as their parents, could enjoy the quality time with their families. In addition to the other activities mentioned before, a coffee

Mock Crash

A Lesson Learned

By: Mary Mount

On October 2, 1998, Union hosted a mock car crash. Since October is Alcohol Awareness month, the crash servedto warn students of the dangers of drinking and driving.

Real emergency personnel were present, and they treated the accident as if it were an actual life or death situation. The scene was complete with a helicopter to airlift the "victims," and, also, the police and the rescue squad (all the people who would work in a real emergency). The crew had to leave early to help in a real accident on the bypass.

This was a very important and informative demostration.

During the mock crash, this "victim" demostrated the effects of drinking and driving

Emergency personnel wheeled the accident "victim" away from the scene on a stretcher.

If one person's life was saved due to this program, or if one person present was convicted to refrain from driving while under the influence of alcohol, the "crash" could be considered one of the most successful programs of the year because of its lifechanging effect.

Emergency crews worked to rescue passengers trapped in the vehicle after the "wreck." This was a very dramatic representation of what a real accident involving alcohol would be like.

Fireshman Experience

By: Mary Mount

Freshman Orientation was a very busy time for students. It was exciting for the freshmen to meet their new roommates, friends, and other students majoring in their field. The week was packed with events for the newcomers to give them a taste of life at Union University. Every morning there were sessions to orientate students to Union, and the afternoons were filled with picnics, sporting events, and activities to help get used to school. Evenings were also busy with movie night, "Let's Make a Deal,' and the Get Acquainted Party.

There were also chances to discover the different on-campus organizations and to find out what Union has to offer besides academics.

Alicia Toy paused for a moment during Freshman Orientation. The freshman days were busy. and there was rarely a moment that something was not happening on campus.

These guys patiently waited to hear if their numbers would be called to go on stage for "Let's Make a Deal."

Graham Hilliard celebrates his "Let's Make a Deal" victory as Autumn Alcott and Sarah Jane Head were among many freshtiren that filled the chapel for "Let's Make a Deal." This was one of the most exciting events of the busy week, and was a welcome diversion before the routine of classes began.

These freshmen came up on stage during "Let's Make a Deal" to see which of them came from the farthest distance to attend Union. This year's class has students from Germany, Kenya and many other places that seem foreign to many Unionites. Besides being the largest freshman class in school history, it is the most varied in geographic location

Fall 1998

By: Mary Mount

On December 19, 1998, Union University graduated 88 students in the G.M. Savage Memorial Chapel. Addressing the graduates was Dr. Larry McSwain, president of Shorter College in Rome, Georgia.

As always, graduation was a time of letting go of the past and embracing the future. Eighty-eight students left Union University behind and set out to new lives outside the university walls. It was a time to tell old friends good-bye, to put away textbooks and pages of class notes, and to look forward to the future with a smile. The chapel was filled with mixed emotions as the graduates reminisced on fond memories of their time at Union, and worried about lay ahead. The excitement of graduating, however, was the prevalent emotion of the day.

Winter Term

One team gets a pep talk before playing a dodge ball game.

Union's Winter Term is a unique opportunity for students to complete classes in one month instead of an entire semester. Many students take advantage of this time to retake classes that they need to bring up their G.P.A. Others take winter term so they can graduate on time or to get harder classes out of the way in a short amount of time.

Students generally take 3-6 hours, and since the campus is less populated than during regular terms, they have more uninterrupted study time.

Union University's Homecoming was the week of February 8th-13th. This year marked the 176th an niversary of the school. The week was celebrated by students, faculty, and alumni who took part in a variety of activities planned for the occasion. Clubs and organizations showed their school spirit by making signs and proclaiming "Go Dawgs!" throughout the hallways.

The culmination of the week came on Saturday night with the Homecoming basketball game. It was here that the winning groups were announced. However, the whole week was filled with excitement during games, receptions, class reunions, and Friday night's Variety Show.

"Launcio" into Success

By: Mary Mount
The LAUNCH Program was a new addition to the Union educational community in 1998. LAUNCH stands for "Leadership for Adult Undergraduate CoHorts." As a degree completion program, it helps to develop important skills and leadership that will be beneficial to job continuation and advancement in various fields. Launch gives adults an opportunity to return to school and earn a degree while maintaining the important balance between a fulltime job and family. When the program is completed, students will have earned a Bachelor of Science degree in organizational leadership.

The program features cohort projects that provide an excellent learning environment for the 49 students who enrolled in the 1998 session. It also helps the participants develop a course for advancement in their fields. It gives them advantages in their careers by providing essential skills and offering them a flexible opportunity to continue their education while holding a fulltime job.

In its first year LAUNCH proved to be a great success, and it promises to continue to grow every year.

Campus Retreat

By: Mary Mount

What do a road trip, Pickwick Landing State Park, and about 85 college students have to do with God's ultimate purpose? They had everything to do with it during Union's Campus Retreat weekend. On November 6-8, 1998, Union students had a chance to get away from the cares of school and focus on growing in their relationship with God.

Jeff Lewis, a popular speaker and coordinator of Passion, was the guest speaker. His message dealt with how God's ultimate purpose is to be glorified among all nations. Students spent their time worshipping God through song, prayer, Bible study, and fellowship with other Christians.
"This was a weekend designed for students to get away and relax, with no structure," Andy Pettigrew said. The Union Praise team provided the music, and students enjoyed meeting new people and growing spiritually as they began "Discovering the Heart of God," the theme of the weekend.

The Union Praise Band, better known as the chapel band, provided the music for the retreat.

Opportunities

By: Mary Mount

Global Opportunities week was held on Sept. 21-25, offering students a glimpse of what Campus Ministries and G.O. Trips include throughout the year.

The cafeteria became the focal point of the week as booths were set up by students and program representatives to encourage others to become involved in missions. Those opportunities included Revival Teams, Centrifuge, Disciple Now, Creative Arts Teams, Backyard Bible Clubs and much more. Summer missionaries from as far away as Guam, Costa Rica, and Azerbaijan (the week's spotlighted country) shared their experiences with other prospective team members.

Serving with a Smile

By: Mary Mount
Backyard Bible Clubs are an important ministry of many Union students. They take part in these club, devoting several hours a week to spend time with children who might not have another Christian role model to look up to. They bring jump ropes, crayons, coloring books, balls, and other toys and play with the children for a while after they arrive. Then they come together as a group to sing and share Bible stories.

This is a very important contribution to the Jackson community. Without students who are willing to spend time with these precious children, many people might never hear God's word. Some of the children have never set foot in a church, and because of the dedication of the Bible club leaders, they have the opportunity to see and hear the gospel in a way they never would experience otherwise.

Hope Weaver teaches some of the children a song as they gather to begin their Bible study.

There are so many aspects about UNION that are more than you would hope for, let alone expect.

This section is called Tidbits because we are going to feature many of the things that make Union so special the University's $P E O P L E$, classes, construction, wonderful chapel services, dorm life, special events. All of these aspects and more combine to make up the place many students call home for four, five, or more years. No matter who you ARE, 1998-1999 was a very exciting year for Union with the groundbreaking of the baseball field and new bookstore. As ALWAYS the year was $F U L L$ of exciting activities such as campus day, homecoming, fraternity and sorority rushes, parties, and so much more. One $0 f$ the first things an incoming freshman learns is that there is never a dull moment. Even midnight runs to Wal-Mart are excitng and fun. ## Just A Swingin’ Union students now have a new weekend

 pastime: Swing Dancing!By Stefanie Morris

Swing Dancing of the Thirties has taken a new flare of interest in 1998. Memphis which has its own swing club has found numerous Union students filling the dance floor to hear the sweet swing music sounds. The club in Memphis is in the basement of Covenant Christian Church. The club has a live band called the New Memphis Hep Cats, that plays throughout the night keeping the adrenaline high.

This particular club devotes the first hour that it is open to teaching newcomers the steps. A dance teacher leads everyone through the basic swing steps and moves, so that they will have more comfort with getting out on the dance floor. The moves are easy to pick up and takes little practice to remember the steps, is the usual response from students. Shilo Velasquez who swings quite frequently says, "I started swinging this fall and I was able to quickly learn the moves, so that now I am teaching others." Shilo and others often hold dance lessons on campus to familiarize newcomers before they themselves go out Swinging.

New Comer to Swing Dancing is Mandy Boggs who says, "On Saturday nights people used to go to dinner or to a movie, but now they just swing, because swing dancing is the best. You can have so much fun, even when you don't know all of the steps."
"Swing Dancing is extremely easy to learn, and I always have a super mergantroyed time!" exclaims Shilo.

Shilo Velasquez helped newcomer Mandy Boggs learn some basic swing steps. Many Union students are found around campus practicing the moves of swing dancing before going to the clubs.

The Days Of Our Lives

By Stefanie Morris

On campus Union students often find their busy class, work, and extracurricular activities schedules don't always leave enough free time for the "necessary" components of their lives. With so many places to be and things to do students often give up sleeping, eating, cleaning, and various other activities that seemed so natural in high school. Students hurry through the cafeteria line or grab a bite to go from the Lexington Inn before starting their homework or returning to their apartments after a long day.
Rooms get cluttered with thrown clothing and scattered books. Apartments echo the leftovers of every roommate who leaves a Coke can here and half a sandwich there. But through all the hurried lives that students lead, most are content with their life-styles. After all, isn't college all about no sleep, the neverending floor of mess, and food and classes on the run?

Audrey Harris made dinner in her McAfee apartment. Many upperclassmen decided to live in McAfee with the convenience of newer, kitchen apartments.

Ben Wilkinson contemplated ways to get everything done. Students often had trouble balancing their schedules towards the end of a semester.

worked on keeping their bodies in good health and shape. Students who regularly exercise have less stress than those who don't because exercise helps to relieve tension and stimulate the mind.
a: e known each other since high school. g back, I as something special about him from the first was very shy at that time, and I don't think Aaron uil existed, I got a little braver the summer before 30 and after a whole summer of hinting around, we - wating on Labor Day weekend of my Freshman year (his M. .more year). We were a perfect match from the beginning, anc I think that somewhere deep down I always knew that there was scmething special between us. We just had to wait on God's timing. Aaron proposed to me two and a half years later, on April 11, 1998 during Union's spring break cruise to the Bahamas. He had gotten the ring in the fall and told both our parents, but I had no idea. He even told me that the cruise line had a new policy that required chaperons for college groups, so that I wouldn't get suspicious when our parents went on the cruise. The day that the cruise docked at Nassau I started getting a little suspicious, only because our parents were acting so strange. We walked around the Island of the Atlantis, the most beautiful hotel you could ever imagine. That night after dinner, he asked me if wanted to go back over to the Atlantis to see the lights. We left everyone else back at the ship and took a taxi to the hotel. Aaron and I sat down to talk by a fountain that was in a large glass walled room. It was so beautiful and peaceful with the sound of the waterfall and fish swimming all around us. Then I started to here this music coming from the underwater tunnel, and I looked up to see everyone else who went on the cruise, including our parents, walking out of the tunnel singing and carrying a candle and one white rose. They each handed me a rose as they passed by. I was so shocked that I couldn't speak. Aaron's dad snuck up behind me and handed Aaron a dozen red roses and my mom handed me a huge bouquet of wild flowers. By the time Aaron got down on his knee, I had so many flowers that I could barely hold them all. When Aaron asked me to be his bride, I don't think that I even said yes. I just jumped up and kissed him in front of everyone. It was the most magical moment of my life., In fact, I don't think any girl could ever dream of anything more perfect.

We met at school during the first week of our Freshman year. My roommate and I were on our way to McDonalds when we saw Johnathan standing in the circle between the commons. We invited him to come along with us. After that we started hanging out together and naturally discovered that we shared a lot of the same interests. We talked about the Lord and what He was doing in our lives. We were not attracted to each other at all and had no intentions of ever dating. As we began to spend significant amounts of time together, our friends thought that something was going to develop. But we were convinced that nothing ever would. We just seemed to click spiritually and found that we really challenged each other in our Christian walks. We spent that whole year getting to know each other and over the summer we began to pray about our feelings. When we returned to school, we began dating the first week. We got engaged a year and a half later on Christmas Eve at his family's house. We went around the room to watch each person open all of his/her gifts, and when it was my turn Jon put a big box in my lap. He wrapped the ring inside of three smaller boxes and inside the last box was a red piece of paper that said Merry Christmas, and inside of the paper was written, "As you wish." This quote is from the movie The Princess Bride, in which the character says, "As you wish" to really mean, "I love you." The whole family knew Jon was proposing and had already seen the ring. When I saw the ring I burst into tears. He held io out and asked me to marry him. My reaction was crying. I said yes and then we set the date of January 9, 1999. When we are married we will still be seniors, so we will live on campus in married housing

Jonathan D. Kever and Charlene Simpson

Jonathan and 1 first met in March of my Freshman year, and although I could never remember his name, I accepted his invitation to go on our first date. We really hit it off, and I think we both knew that it was something special. I was blown away to see how much we had in common. Not too long after our initial date, we began dating exclusively. Jonathan has become my best friend, and in the short time that we have been together, we have helped each other strengthen our relationships with God. I have always wanted someone that I could share my dreams with and now that my dream has come true, maybe I won't forget his name!

WTHS YEAR POWERSOURCE HAS REVOIVED AROUND WORSHPPING GOD WITH OUR HEADE AMD OUR HEARTS." Jeamma young.

Steve Moore lead some songs during powersource with the rest of the praise band playing in the background.
"This year Powersource has revolved around worshipping God with our heads and our hearts. As students we are expected to be part of a huge number of worship services and ministries. Powersource provides a unique opportunity for us to attend a pressure free worship time," said Jeanna Young. Powersource is a time for student lead worship and praise ever other Monday night. A group of students have formed a praise band that plays not only during Powersource, but has also participated in Chapel services. During Powersource students sing praise songs and listen to a student led message. There are times for individual student prayer in which each student can reflect and pray silently.
"For me Powersource is an excellent opportunity to take my mind off of school work and focus on worshipping God with other students," said Melissa Hughes.

Kristin Wicker sang with all her heart to lift up the name of God during a Powersource. The praise band has both male and female singers so that all students have a range to sing in.

Coloring Outside The lines

By Stefanie Morris

Part of Art 113 was a 2-dimensional design class project in which each student had to use 320 squares with the principals of lines and values of lighting to master the grid method. Displayed are some of the projects during the month of October.

Shilo Velasqueez worked on his art project, capturing beauty within the confines of pencil and paper.

The art wall in October was filled with small paintings done by art students who each had to individually paint 40 pitcures of anything they desired.

Working on a ceramics project was graduate student Ray Gregory.

Jennifer Thompson, a former student, made this piece of artwork as a self portrait.

Having to relieve some stress and just have some fun, the art depatment hosted a "Blue Party" for all art majors and minors. All students who attended had to dress in blue, eat and drink blue food and fulfill other blue themes. Playing Twister are Michah Akisson and Jenny Henlyey, with Jay Pratt who encouraged from the sidelines.

Living on campus at Union may cause problems for some or frustrate others, but on the whole Union students find fond memories made and lasting relationships with roommates and neighbors. The Hurt (female) and Watters (male) complexes house women and men within the private and protective walls of the complexes. McAffee residents, which are both men and women but in seperate apartments, are open and for many feel much more freedom. McAffee apartments are normally reserved for upperclassman for maturity reasons of not having so much supervision or people around. Within these apartments are where all the action on campus happens, whether it be early morning, three in the morning or during open dorms.

When Freshman first arrive at Union most find themselves in a room in Hurt that holds five people with no kitchen. Freshmen often find comfort in knowing they now have others in which to venture out of the room with to explore the campus. True that not all freshman room assignments always work out, but even through struggles roommates normally find friendships that will last. For current sophomores Whitney Faughn, Amanda Nason, Mandy Day, and Angie Miller, their freshman year brought many crazy memories and some lasting friendships. "We were crazy roommates. One day while I was out of the apartment, my roommates decided to prank me by taking all the living room furniture and placing it all throughout my room. Using the couch base and the two chairs they blockaded the outside of my door. It was the funniest thing!" said Whitney Faughn.

Open dorms give all students the chance to visit their friends of the opposite sex in their apartments. Open dorms are held every other Saturday and on some selected evenings.

> One day while I was out of the apartment, my roommates decided to prank me by taking all the living room furni- ture and placing it all throughout my room. Using the couch base and the two chairs they blockaded the outside of my door. It was the funniest thing!" said Whitney Faughn.

Smiling with pride at their work of blockading their roomates room were Amanda Nason, Mandy Day and Angie Miller.

During open dorms Amos Woud hung out with Amanda Welch in a friend's apartment.

"Unsettled Grounds!" Groundbreaking begins Union's 20-year master plan

The 1998-99 Union University school year began with a groundbreaking bang. On Friday, September 25, 1998 a groundbreaking ceremony was held for the new LifeWay Christian Store. The LifeWay Christian Store is the new bookstore retailer for Union and is the only Baptist Book Store/LifeWay Christian store on a university campus. The construction of this new building is the first development in Union's 20 year master plan. The master plan will enable Union to serve an additional 1,000 students. The current enrollment of Union is 2,323 students.
The new building is located on the northeastern corner of the campus next to Volunteer Bank. The building will be a two story, Georgian and Colonial mixture styled building. The bookstore will be located in center of the downstairs along with the welcome center. Classrooms are to be located on the first floor. Upstairs there will be Development and Alumni Offices and a conference room. The classrooms will resemble the classrooms in the Blasingame Academic Complex, with the one difference of being able to move furniture around to fit the needs of the class better.

The 20,000-square-foot building is scheduled to be completed summer of 1999. The bookstore itself will not only sell Christian merchandise such as Bibles, music, apparel, gifts and jeweiry, but will also supply the student books and paraphernalia.

Also expanding currently on the Union campus are reconstruction of the Union soccer field and baseball fields.

Each and every Unionite is an important part of what makes Union the whole. They COME from the far regions of the United States and the further regions of the globe. They come to read. They come to write. They come to please parents. They come to become a new individual and prepare for the future. They come to EXPERIENCE the best years of their life. Through organizations, parties, cramming sessions and unique dorm experiences, students learn more and more about Union every day. THE Union experience proves to be more than was expected. From the time a freshman first learns the traditions and tales of UNION at Orientation, to the final moment a senior walks across the commencement stage with diploma in hand, the trials and joys of Union life ring true with all the $S P / R I T$ of Union $U$.

The Chemistry/Physics Department at Union University seeks to serve effectively all students within the institution, recognizing their different needs, interest, and career goals. The chemistry/physics faculty seeks to help students understand the physical world, the methods by which it may be studied, and its relationship to other aspects of the human experience. It is the intentionof the chemistry/physics faculty to create an environment in which students are challenged to acquire skills in problem solving utilizing the modern methods of science and study indepth the chemical and physical processes which characterize life systems and the physical universe while developing an inquiring attitude toward scientific exploration.

Chilstian Studies

The Christian Studies Department continues to grow, with over 175 students now majoring in the department. The department growth stems from a clear vision of where we are going and a solid faculty. The faculty members bring various strengths to the Christian Studies students. All of the department members are good communicators in the classroom and work at the art of teaching. Our faculty members excel at relationships with students. Whether by playing basketball, counseling, or just talking for a moment in the hall, the faculty members show they really care about students. Some members of the faculty write consistently, publishing articles and books that have an impact outside the wall of Union. All of the Christian Studies professors are consistently involved in local churches and, therefore, bring a sense of authenticity to the classroom.

The Education Department is evolving and growing to meet the needs of teacher education in the new millennium. The primary role of the Education Department is to produce emerging teachers who are Christ-like, competent, and reflective. The Education Department has ten full-time faculty members and five part-time members who advise 220 students. These outstanding students plan to use the gifts God has given them as teachers in pre-school, elementary, middle-grades, or special education environments. With a reputation for preparing teachers who know not only about teaching, but also know how to teach, the Teacher Education Program offers twenty-seven different licensure areas.

Communication Arts

Delivering a broadcast. Writing a breaking news story. Creating an advertisement. Starring in the Children's Play. What department offers these exciting opportunities and more? The Communication Arts Department has been a vital part of the Union community, keeping the student body, faculty and staff informed and entertained. The department offers four majors: journalism, broadcasting, public relations/advertising, and theater. It also sponsors the Union University Players, the Cardinal & Cream student newspaper, the Lest We Forget yearbook, the Student Public Relations Society, and many other organizations in which students may be involved.

The Communication Arts Department provides not only knowledge of media professions, but the practical application to back it up, all in a fun and informative setting. Alumni success attests to the strides Communications Arts has made within its time at Union. With enthusiastic and knowledgeable professors and activities to draw students in, the Communication Arts Department gets you there.

History/Political Science

Dr. Stephen Carls Dr. Terry Lindley

The History and Political Science Department, which had five full-time faculty and three part-time members, offered numerous sections of survey classes as well as upper-level courses in American, world, and church history, political science, and geography. In addition, one department major spent the spring semester as a legislative intern in Nashville and another had an applied history internship in the library. Among its graduating majors this year were students who plan to embark on teaching careers, attend law school, or seminary, or enter the business world.

Union University has a long history in nursing education, being the first college in Tennessee to offer an associate degree in nursing. Today we offer the Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree to non-nurses on the Jackson campus and to registered nurses's (RN's) on both the Jackson and Germantown campuses.

The School of Nursing has over 200 students who are studying to become professional nurses. Students obtain a strong foundation in liberal education and in the discipline of nursing from a Christian worldview. This prepares them to provide nursing care, to use technology, to coordinate care in a variety of settings, and to assist patients in using an increasingly complex health care system. Students have the opportunity to be members of the Tennessee Student Nurses Association and the Baptist Student Nursing Fellowship. Last year one of our students was president of the Tennessee Students Nurses Association Graduates are qualified to become licensed as registered nurses and to practice professional nursing in the 21 st century.

UNION was built upon the foundation of quality education for $S$ TVDENTS who are striving to be more like Christ. At the heart of Union are a variety of unique individuals who HAVE unusual stories to tell about their lives. Those things helped shape who they are and may be what helped bring them to Union. SOME unassuming and their stories are not well known. Though everyone has a story to tell, some STORIES seem to capture the unique qualities that give Union its distinct personality. The following pages profile a few of the students who help $T 0$ give Union its special characterization as a Christian university. These one of a kind stories were put together by Laura Rector with the help of each person who is focused upon in one of these profiles. These students were willing to SHARE a little of who they are so that everyone would have a chance to hear their stories.

Clockwise: Doug and Christy during their senior year at Union, high school junior homecoming, Christy's 2Ist surprise birthday party, engagement night, and senior prom.

It wasn't love at first sight. The engaged couple met in kindergarten. However, this was the start of a lifetime friendship that led to marriage. Christy Lawson and Doug Forbes, of Vandalia, M1., have dated continuously for the past seven years. The Union seniors plan to marry in August after graduating this spring.

Christy was the only girl invited to the third grade birthday party of Doug and his twin, Dave. It was a bowling party and Christy said, "I could barely pick up the ball. His dad had to help me pick it up."

They dated for one semester during eighth grade. At that time, Christy was only about five feet tall and Doug was at least six feet. Christy said, "He got down on his knees so we could be level when we danced."

The junior high romance didn't last and in ninth grade the couple hardly associated with each other. Their sophomore year they were at a football game with some friends and Christy elaborated, "He kept hitting my leg. I was like, 'What do you want?' He said, 'I'd like to hold your hand,' and I was like, 'Oh!’" The couple started dating again on January 1. 1992.

Doug said, "High school relationships are very shallow." Christy continued the thought, "Even our first year of college, we matured more than those three years in high school. You know, learning about each other and what makes each other tick."
"I love Christy with all my heart. She's the moon that causes the changes of the seasons. I don't know what l'd do without her." said Doug, biology major.
"I think that goes for both of us. We can't imagine life without being together," added Christy.

What's the secret to their long relationship? "God. Us asking God's wisdom for His timing on marriage." They also try to keep the lines of communication open and honest. When they argue, Doug said, "He [God] has shown us not to hold things in."

Christy advised, "Love is from God and God gave us the ability to love others. Look to that first and He'll show you how to love."

The couple said, they "want people to remember we were a couple who loved God and really enjoyed each other. We were best friends and companions as well as mates for life."

Anyone who looked in the art gallery this past fall might have noticed a display of photographs framed in broken glass. No, someone didn't vandalize the gallery, this was simply the way Vince Black chose to display his senior exhibit.

For the past two summers, Vince has worked at Camp Barnabas, a camp "for children with physical and developmental disabilities." His senior exhibit consisted of black and white photographs taken at the camp, set off by old frames with broken glass. That's the way Vince feels many people view the campers.

The camp is named after Barnabas, the apostle Paul's missionary companion in Acts. "Barnabas was the encourager and so that's why it's called Camp Barnabas because a lot of kids with special needs need encouragement," Vince explained.
"Whenever I first heard about the camp, I thought it would be a camp where we would sit around and do things which cater to their needs, like just sitting around and rolling a ball back and forth. You know, just simple things; but we run a normal camp. We do a high ropes course. We do horseback riding, archery, riflery. l mean it's a normal camp," Vince said.

Vince worked two summers at the camp, one summer as a counselor and one summer as the volunteer coordinator. "Each camper is assigned one counselor. They get one counselor just to themselves, so every week, we had to have a lot of volunteers," Vince said.

His experiences at the camp have had a great influence on his artwork. Many of his drawing and photographs feature children with disabilities.

Vince graduated in December 1998. "I'm not sure what l want to do. I have a passion for working with children or youth. I have a passion for God's Word. I enjoy doing art," he said. The art and Christian studies major plans to attend seminary eventually.

Clockwise: Tom at Union, his last re-enlistment, receiving an award for Sailor of the Month. Air Crew Training School, and when he made chief.

Tam Young

Tom Young was in the United States Navy for 20 years, one month, seven days, eight hours and about 23 minutes.
"I had originally planned to stay in 24 years until 1 had my heart attack," said the senior chief, who is now a liberal studies major at Union.

Tom, of Brownsville. Tenn., said his college choice was easy. "My mother went here. As did two of my sisters and a brother, so we kept it in the family."

He explained why he chose to go into education after he had the heart attack, "I wasn't going to sit behind a desk in a military office and never see the sun."

The most exciting thing about being in the Navy was "getting to fly in several different types of airplanes." Tom found the travel aspect of his job enjoyable, also. He named a least seventeen different countries he had visited. A few of which included Venezuela, Belgium and Italy.
"People are different everywhere and no matter where 1 was at, it was always great to get back here. For me, this is the greatest country on the planet. 1 can see why so many people want to come here from so many different countries," said Tom about his travels.

His main job was repairing jet aircraft engines and his secondary job was teaching how to repair engines and doing paperwork.

In the Navy, gaining the rank of chief is a high honor. Tom went beyond that and became a senior chief. He said, "That was the best day of my life. The goal of anybody who makes a career out of the Navy is to be chief." The only honor higher than senior chief is to be named master chief. If Tom had stayed in the Navy, he would have been eligible for master chief in six months.

When he's not in class, Tom likes to take photographs. watch television and work on cars. He also reads a lot of navy-oriented books. After all his experience. he can easily go through and pick out the mistakes. Tom is also able to pick out mistakes in movies depicting the Navy such as Top Gun.

He said that he wants people to know that "this person didn't give up and kept trying until he got what he had aimed for." That's the philosophy of the senior who hopes to graduate in December 1999.

He describes himself as the "jack of all trades." Tom explained. "I can do just about anything if I put my mind to it. Anybody should be able to do just about anything if they really try."

Malinda Upton traveled for three days by plane to get to school this year. Her parents serve as missionaries in Malawi, a country in southern Africa. Except for their furlough times, Malinda lived in Malawi from the time she was a baby.

She said she loved "the people, because they're warm and they're friendly. Everyone asks you how you are and they really care."

The English major has been at Union for two years. She has enough credits to be a junior. Malinda said the hardest adjustment was "being surrounded by so many people my own age. Because in Malawi all the Malawians who are my age were married or had jobs and the Expat [expatriots] kids were away at boarding school, so all my friends were adults and children."

Malinda talked about some of the dilferences between Malawi and the United States. "We didn't have tornadoes there. The standard of living is extremely higher here than it is there. The things people worry about are different. People in Malawi don't worry so much about what they wear as much as they do about whether they actually have something to wear or not."

Malinda says her education was, "Intensely varied, because 1 was home-schooled using three different programs. I also went to a British private school, a Christian boarding school and an American public school."

Home-schooling was Malinda's favorite because, she said, "I felt that I was able to learn a lot more and I got to be closer to my mom and dad. For my senior trip I traveled to Kenya with my mom and dad. I would have rather been with them than anybody."

Malinda said her current interests are "reading, cooking, sewing, writing and Scott." Scott Elledge, a 1998 Union graduate is her fiance. They plan on getting married this summer and then Malinda will transfer to Middle Tennessee State University.

Americans sometimes ask Malinda strange questions about her African experiences. She explained, "Well, people ask things like, 'Did you live in a mud hut? Do you have elephants in your yard?' when I actually came from a city of almost one million people."

How did she find out about Union in Africa? She said, "I got brochures from almost every Baptist college. They all told me how good their football team was and how much money they could save me."

She continued, "I prayed and I told God that since I didn't understand football and I wasn't interested in attending a school which attracted students solely based on how cheap it was, that I wasn't going to college unless I found one that had strong academic standards and was ministryoriented. The next day I got the brochure from Union which didn't even have a football team and talked about academics and ministry."

Clockwise: Malinda with her family, her church decorated with toilet paper for Christmas. her senior trip to Kenya, her with her Scott at his graduation, and Malinda at Union.

Malinde Uyton

 tian conference in Indianapolis: New Year`s ‘98, in choir at Capital, and at Union.

Paul Tipton started his college career at Capital University in Columbus, Ohio, where he was pursuing a vocal performance major and a classical performance career. God brought an end to that pursuit and the junior found his way to Union. He spent one semester at Union as a music major, and God changed that plan too. Now, he hopes to serve the Lord in a different way with his Biblical Studies major and music minor.

Paul said that during his sophomore year at Capital, "God exploded onto the scene and somehow by His amazing and indescribable grace, He led me to believe that He really is worth seeking everyday."

The native of Murfreesboro, Tenn., said, "I needed a seriously committed place which would encourage daily growth with the Lord. That's the kind of atmosphere I needed, especially back in October of 1997. God brought Union into the picture and it totally fit the bill."

When he went home for Thanksgiving, he heard about Union. He finished the semester at Capital and called Karen Edwards, Union admissions counselor, on December 1.
"I prayed before I called and asked God. 'Help me to know if this is the right thing, and from there on I trusted Him with the situation and He led me to Union," Paul explained.

When asked about his interests, he laughingly replied, "I have forgotten any hobbies 1 used to have, because the only thing 1 know how to do now is study."

When he's not studying, Paul participates in various choral groups and handbells at Union and he loves to read. especially the Bible and classics.

It should come as no surprise that this member of the McAfee Dorm Council also loves people. Paul said, "I love to meet new people. It's interesting learning where people are with God. My prayer is that He will use me to help others know him better. God sends certain people into all of our lives and His desire is for us to love as He loved." Paul wants to share that love with others, because, as he noted, "God has so graciously allowed me a personal encounter with His Son and it's my prayer that others will see this and want it also."

Paul has found the experience of transferring enjoyable as he expounded, "It's fun! l've had an awesome time adapting to the environment. It's definitely unique. Union is like no other school l've ever attended or visited." He added, "When I first got here. 1 just wanted to jump in and trust the Lord with new relationships, living situations and academics."
"My desire is to only be known for one thing and that is my faith. I want to abandon everything in this life for the sake of Jesus. I'm definitely not there yet, but l'm headed in that direction." Paul said. "My purpose in life is to serve as a reflection of Jesus for those around me."
"I would hope that people would look at me as I am. I am William Gray, not William Gray-athlete. I think all athletes should be viewed for their own personalities and own actions. When people look at me, I don't want them to say, 'That's William. He's a basketball player.' I want them to say, 'That's William. He's a child of God.'," William Gray, freshman English major explained.

Eclectic seems to be the best word to describe William. The freshman is red-shirting for the Bulldogs' basketball team this year, but that's far from his only interest. For example, William writes poetry and is working on a musical. During the past three to four summers William worked at a daycare near his home in Paris, Tenn.
"Eventually, what I would like to do is to open up my own preschool and from there branch out or own my own private school. I'd like to go into childcare and if at all possible I'd like to go into writing, but who knows?" the native of Yonkers, New York said.

Children "fascinate" William. He expounded, "If 1 could be a good influence on them and share with them the message of Christ, I then could change lives. And I guess that's what I want to do, change lives for His glory."
"I love to write. I love to think. I like to create, to make something new," William said.

The 18 year-old chose Union, because "I thought this was the right kind of environment for me to be in because the coaches genuinely cared about me as a person and not just as another basketball player."

That care is evident in the praise William's coaches have for him.
"He is a fantastic person and a joy to coach and I'll tell you something about him as a person. He's probably an even better person than he is a basketball player and I think he's going to be a great basketball player. He's one of the few people who actually is nicer that they seem and he seems so nice it's unbelievable," said Ralph Turner, head coach.
"I think he's really developed a heart that's sensitive to God, which will allow him to be balanced," said Mark Campbell, assistant men's basketball coach. Campbell added, "He's the example of the kind of person, kind of student and kind of player we want in our program. If all 15 guys can be like William, I think we're in good shape. Him being a freshman makes our future very bright."

William sees himself in a much humbler light. As the Union family reads about him, this child of God said, "I want them to know that I'm still working and that l'm still trying to pursue God's will."
"I like to watch my surroundings and notice the little things in life-they make me think and, as Jewel Kilcher put it, to 'find God in simplicity." I write these things to attempt to personify or place some of God's blessings in tangible form."

Personality Profiles

Brad White read God’s Word this summer and God changed him. Now, he wants to teach God’s Word and see God change others. The junior - from Paducah, Ky. went to Peru for two months during the summer of 1998, - as part of a group mentored by missionary Paul Washer of the HeartCry - Missionary Society.

The Bible was the only book Brad took with him and Brad was able - to use "a lot of free time to read the Bible and pray." He learned to pray - through God's Word during his devotions. For example, he might pray through the Ten Commandments (Ex. 20), the fruits of the Spirit (Gal. 5) or the Beatitudes (Mt. 5).
"For instance, the Ten Commandments starts outs with you shall have no other gods before me, so I'd just start praying and I'd say. 'God, do - I have any gods before you?' It's just the whole way I'm asking God to - convict me, and He is, and I'm repenting. I really think that one of the things - God desires of us is brokenness and humility over our sin." Brad explained.

One of Brad's biggest realizations was that he didn't choose where - he was born or the circumstances of his life. In contrast, he said he wants - people to remember, "Anything I am is just because God made me that way. I am what I am by the grace of God. Everything I have I owe to God."
"It was just the grace of God how I got to go on the trip. I had heard - Washer preach one time my junior year of high school and somehow I got - connected with him," Brad said.
"I was home one weekend and I talked to three or four friends and - they all mentioned to me the same guy that they had heard preach," he ex-- plained.
"I got his phone number and called him and asked him if I maybe could come down and work with him for a couple of months. He told me not only could I, but that he was hoping to get together a group of college guys, for the summer, so I just took it that this was what God wanted me to do," Brad said.

Brad committed to be a career missionary when he was 18 . His heart is in Latin America. That's why Brad decided to major in Spanish and minor in Christian Studies before heading to seminary.
"In Latin America, a lot of people don"t know what the gospel is. They'll tell you that they're Catholic, but if you ask them what that means, - they won't know either," said Brad, who works in Spanish ministries at Poplar Heights Baptist Church.

God used the trip to refine Brad's calling. He said, "At this point, I - think He wants me to do some kind of theological education. If you can get to the pastors, ultimately you can get to more people."

Brad went to Peru this summer to be mentored by Paul Washer of the HeartCry Missionary Society. There, God changed his heart and used him to change the hearts of the people of Peru.

Lady Bulldog Basketball

The Lady Bulldog Basketball Team captured the title of National Champions during the 1998 season. This powerful team has advanced to the championship game three times in a row and as the new season started the ending will no doubt be the same as they defend their title. The team contains an overwhelming amount of ability and talent, but no seniors. Lori Love and Meg Griffin, two Juniors, led the team as top scoring guards. Both are outstanding at shooting from the three-point range. The inside game was led by Rose Agnoung, Celestine Gholston, and Leslie Henderson.

Dr. Davi d Blackstock began his 17th and final season as coach of the Lady Bulldogs. He has never lost more than 10 games in one season and has accumulated an overall record of 478-84 with a national title. Under Coach Blackstock's guidance, the team earned a #2 ranking in the Winningest Active NAIA Women's Basketball Teams in the last five years.

The 1998 Bulldog Golf Team was very successful with only three returning players. The three golfers returning from last year are Willie Travathan, Timmy Wolfe and Kevin Bromley. The team lost Steven Hammond and Micky Wolfe who were there top players. Micky has taken on the task of coaching this talented group. Last year these golfers placed 10th in the National Tournament. They are currently ranked 14th in the NAIA. In October the Bulldog Golf Team played their best and came out on top as they won the Goodyear Invitational. Timmy

Wolfe received the All-Tournament award. It was very obvious through the many victories of the team that the new teammates have picked up the slack and continue to improve. Watching these guys on the golf course for just a moment indicated how much they each enjoy their sport as they excel in it. There is no doubt that we will hear more about this team's success in the future.

Willie Travathan gave it his all as he practiced his swing for the next hole.

Working on his long driving skills, Aurelio Roqueta swung with all his might.

The Lady Bulldog Softball team has always been tremendously exciting to watch. The 1998 team ended the year with a 51-16 overall record. This outstanding amount of victory led to a #19 final NAIA National Ranking. They accomplished a #l National Ranking in NCCAA for the first time ever. They walked away from the NCCAA National Tournament as Runner-Up. With a 17 game winning streak the Lady Bulldogs set a school record for wins. This was also the first 50 win season in Union University's sports history. This extremely talented team consists of five NCCAAAll-Americans, five Tran-South All-Conference players, four Mid-SouthAll-Region players, and a NCCAA National Coach of the Year. We are all very proud of the extraordinary group and cannot wait until we see more of their action.  \title{

The 1998 Union Bulldog Tennis Team was completely equipped to be victorious. Sophomore Mario Cobo was ranked 27th in the NAIA. During his freshman year, Cobo mortified a 10th ranked junior from FreedHardeman with a victory in the fall tournament. Balazs Tilli also earned a ranking with the NAIA as 31st in singles. In doubles matches the duo of Mario Cobo and Luis Pozzi ranked 23rd. The talent this team had from these returning players was awesome. The newcomers were just as outstanding. Philippe Sylvestre won an "A" division at Rolex Southeast Regional in Lexington, KY. Sophomore Jay Horne transfered from

The Cheerleaders of Union University have always been true spirit lifters for the fans and athletes. The 1998 squad was no less. Their enthusiasm and talent inspired us all to rise to our feat and cheer the Bulldogs and Lady Bulldogs to sweet victory. The commitment, strength, and skill needed in order to be a cheerleader is often overlooked. For this reason we wish to let our cheerleaders know how much they are appreciated. After all, it is quite near impossible to imagine the games without those words of encouragement from our cheerleaders.

This season was a first for the Union Bulldogs. For the first time in 11 seasons, the 1999 Bulldogs have received a No. 11 NAlA national ranking in the preseason polls. Seeing many present and former Union baseball player's dreams become a reality, the 1999 Bulldogs will play the first season under the lights of a new 600 -seat baseball stadium. And for the first time in many years, Union's roster only contained two seniors.

One of the many strengths of this 1999 squad may be the result of an extremely talented infield. The Bulldogs depended on All-Conference and AllAmerican shortstop John Koffman for leadership both on and off the field.

Union's outfield was definitely noticed for their speed. All-American performer Kevin Overcash returned to the outfield this season along with the addition of transfer Alan Eubanks from Jackson State.

One noticeable difference for the Bulldogs this season was the increased number of lefthanders in the rotation. Leading this staff was Bart Lindsey who was a returning starter from last spring.

Although replacing players from the 1998 team is impossible, the 1999 Bulldogs will look for new players to step up and become the great performers of 1999.

Completely confident in his precision, John Kauffman threw the ball in for another out.

This outstanding pitch demonstrated Kai Fredrick's awesome abilities.

Intramural sports are exciting and competitive for everyone. Many Greek organizations take part in every one of the sports offered.

Among these sports are flag football. softball, basketball, sand volleyball, indoor volleyball, wallyball, putt-putt golf and many, many more. Com-

Union Community Grieves together over Hutchens death

Jackson, Tenn. - "Sadness, loss and despair are only a few of the emotions we're feeling today, but we are trusting in God to provide help and hope for us," Union University President David S. Dockery said as the Union community gkieved together during a memorial service for basketball coach Lisa Hutchens, Monday, Feb. 22. Autchens, co-head coach of Union's women's basketball team, was found dead in her home, Saturday, Feb. 20. The Jackson Police Department ruled the death was caused by a self-inflicted gun shot
"Sometimes in life, things bappen that will change younife forever. On Saturday, the terrible news of Lisa's death changed my life and countless others forever," Rev. Jerry Tidwell said to a standing-room-only crowd in the Union chapel. Tidwell is pastor of West Jackson Baptist Church, where Lisa has been a member since 1997.
"The pain is unbearable. We need one another and we need God's Aelp to deal with what's happened in our lives," Minister to the University Todd Brady said. In yesponse to the grief expressed by students and athletes, the university has developed a teampf faculty and staff to counsel those struggling with Hutchens' death. "Lisa was a beloved member of this community, and we are grieving her loss deeply," Dockery said.
"She was a person who was achieving great levels of excellence on a professionkl level," Dockery continued. Hutchens had just finished her classwork for her doctorate and was preparingto begin her dissertation at the University of Memphis.

In her six seasons at Union, Hutchens was instrumental in the Lady Bulldogs national success. Since Hutchens joined the team in 1991 as assistant coach, the Lady Bulldogs reached the NAIA national tournament six times. They won the tournament and held the national title for the first time in Union's history last season.

Hutchens, who was also an assistant professor at Union University, received her bachelor's degree from Union in 1983. Hutchens was the first women's basketball player at Union to be named NAIA All-American and NAIA Academic All-American.

Hutchens earned a master of education from Memphis State University in 1985. She went on to coach women's basketball at South Side High School from 1986 to 1991. While at South Side, Hutchens was named coach of the year two years in a yow. She also led the Lady Hawks to the first undefeated season in Madison County history and to the TSSAA state tournament in the 1989-90 season.

Due to time constraints imposed by Saturday's TranSøuth conference, both the men's and women's basketball teams will resume their playing schedule today. Tonight the men's and women's basketball teams will play Lydn College in Batesville, Ark. They will play DavidLipscomb University in Nashville on Wednesday and Williams College at home on Thursday.

Today's service will be followed by a public phemorial service tomorrow in Union's chapel. Visitation is today at Arrington Funeral Home from 5 to 8 p.m. and Wednesday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Williams Funeral Home in Greenfield, Tenn. The burial will be at 1 p.m., Wednesday at Highland Cemetery in Greenfield.

A Tribute To Coach Lisa Hutchens

Steve Beverly, assistant professor of communication arts:
"Her life revolved around people."
Beverly Vos, administrative assistant to vice president for business services:
"She had a great sense of humor. Her personality was very warm and friendly to everyone."
Coach Ralph Turner, instructor of physical education and head coach of the Bulldogs:
"Coach Hutchens was somebody who challenged everyone around her to raise their standards because hers were so high. She was somebody who expected greatness from people, and very often got it because of her expectations."
Carmen Minnich, junior nursing major:
"I admired her trememdous coaching ability and the gift she possessed for teaching."
Matt Tipton, senior Christian studies major:
"My favorite memory of Coach Hutchens was when she took our class to Pope Elementary to work at the Special Olympics. 1 really enjoyed that. She was one of my favorite teachers."

Steven Miller, senior physical education major:
"Coach Hutchens took us to Youth Town for a recreation field trip. She was on a high ropes course and got scared, and she wouldn"t jump down ... We laughed and screamed at her to just jump - she was attached to a bungee cord. She told me, 'You got to come up here and get me off this thang!' in the most Southern redneck slang. By the time I got up there, I was shaking the pole so much she fell."

Special Daughter

Since the day you were born, you have been such a joy to us. We are so proud of you as we watch you achieve your goals. From your first step, you displayed that special determination to be a success. Even when you faltered, you did not stop your journey, but worked hard to do your best. As we watch you now doing things on your own, we pray for God's guidance in your life - His Will!! As you grow into this lovely young woman, may you always know that we are here to love and support you! We are so proud! Love, Mom and Dad

Lorrie Carol Johnson

Acts 17:26-28
From one man he made every nation of men that they should inhabit the whole earth: and He determined the times set for them and the exact places where they should live.

God did this so that men would seek Him and perhaps reach out for him and find him, though he is not far from each one of us. For in him we live and move and have our being.

Aaron,

. . We rejoice that in Him you live and move and have your being. . .

We love you very much, Dad, Mom, & Sarah

Aaron Nachtigal

Lance Respess

Lance, Congratulations! God must love us a lot because He gave us you. You have been a joy and inspiration to us as we have watched you grow, always seeking God's will for your life. Every phase of your life has been a blessing. We love you and are so proud of your accomplishments and the fine young man you have become.

Prov. 16:3 - Commit to the Lord whatever you do, and your plans will succeed.

John Joseph means he shall add untoGod's blessing. And that's what God did when he blessed us with you. We are so proud of you. And we will always love you forever.

The years have passed quickly. You have worked very hard for the diploma you will soon receive. We are very proud of you because of the person you are now and the person you are becoming. You were God's special gift to us and you have richly blessed our lives. We have watched you grow and develop the talents God has given to you. Even at a young age some of those talents were becoming visible. Always put God first and your cup will be overflowing. We love you!!

The eNd Result...

The end result of four years at Union is compiled of a number of elements. It mostly consists of debt, but during my time here, I have amassed so many memories and experiences that I cannot begin to number them or rank them in importance. The truth is, they all jumble together in my mind to form what is popularly known as the "Union experience." This phrase means for each individual Unionite a vastly unique and different collection of variable. However, there are a few constant properties every Union student experiences. These common elements are founded on the basic idea of community.

The Union community is unique and rare. It is a community based on cooperation between faculty and students on an academic, and most importantly spiritual relationship. Perhaps not all students have experienced the support and prayers of their professors, but I have. And I feel I will continue to feel their influence long after I have left this place.

The end result of Union is a sense of completion. Four years is a great investment of time and money. It is also a sense of accomplishment and preparedness. Yes, the real world scares me like nothing I have ever faced before, but I feel that my education and life-experiences within and without the Union "bubble" have benefited me beyond any preparation for which I could have hoped. We lovingly call the Union campus and family a "bubble", and it is. On campus students are somewhat profected by the rules and regulations imposed at Union. However, growth is an individual thing, and despite the strict rules and supposed limitations, I have grown. To me, growth is the ability to make choices without blaming anyone but yourself for the consequences. It is also a little thing called maturity. In my opinion and in my experience, maturity is something to be paid for dearly. The first test I ever failed in my life was here at Union, and yes, I was angry and hurt and I cried. However, as I look back, I see that I have not remained in despair, rather, my experience has pushed me onward to greater and better things, like a diploma.

Sometimes it seems ridiculous to me that all I will tangibly have received for my four years at Union is a decorated piece of paper with my name on it. It feels a bit like kindergarten, but with less recitation, and the gowns are more expensive. Nevertheless, I feel that when May is here and the diploma is shining in my hot liftle hand, I will sense the same feeling of accomplishment and readiness as my friends who have graduated in the years before.

As As with everything in our lives, God uses Union to guide us. In my life, my learning at Union has reinforced my calling, but for some God changes us drastically. The beauty of this uncertainty is that each of us may not be sure of what we are supposed to be doing here, but we know that we are supposed to be a part of the Union family.

I have calmed a great deal since I first set foot on Union's campus, an I believe this comes with a change in perspective. My Freshman year was all about getting to know people, and I did. That year has resulted in some of the finest friendships I will ever experience. My Sophomore year was more solid and had more direction concerning my major; I was getting older. I got my first real taste of my chosen profession my Junior year. This my last and final year at Union has provided me with a perspective that is torn between memory and aspiration. I can not wait to get my feet wet, but I really would like to have a twelve o'clock class every once in a while. I know that when I begin work, I will not have that luxury any longer. I will miss being in college, but it is time to move on. The end result of Union is the ability to leave the nest with confidence, either real or imagined, but with confidence nonetheless that these years have not been wasted, and that these years have taught us how to prepare ourselves.

"For I know the plans I have for you declares the Lord, plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you a future and a hope."
Jeremiah 29:11
